

your wedding florals

booking guide

one

getting started

Complete the enquiry form on the website so I can gather the details of your event and check availability for your date. We can then schedule a consultation to find out all about your style and floral requirements. This can be an initial call or visit the studio on the flower farm.

two

consultation

I offer a bespoke service for each couple, creating designs for your individual vision and style. So, I want to know all about what makes you, you, and what's important on your special day. If you have any images or inspiration, please bring them along. And if you don't yet have firm ideas for your florals that's also ok, I can help take you through the design process to understand what you would like and give options to help decisions.

three

design

I put together a design and quote document for you, which usually takes approximately a week. I then work with you to tweak designs, narrow down options, and confirm a final draft of your designs.

booking

Once happy with the final design and quote, you can reserve the date and book your florals with a 30% deposit.

checking-in

We may schedule further conversations in the coming months to confirm design details or logistical arrangements. I schedule a check-in one month before your date to re-confirm the design, items and delivery details. This provides the opportunity to make small amendments such as additional buttonholes or table centres. I will then confirm the final payment balance.

on the day

I deliver your wedding florals and set up any installations at your venues. I will brief venue coordinators on moving floral items if required. I will collect any items and vases the day after your event or by arrangement. Then you just have to remember to send me pictures, because my absolute favourite thing is seeing your vision come to life!
